

Management Report – Volume 27 – 2025 Edition

Volume 27 of Turismo: Visão e Ação, published in 2025, brought to the TVA editorial team important challenges related to improving and sustaining the continuous publication system. Through this system, we reduced the time between submission and publication and streamlined the editorial process, enabling readers to access high-quality scientific articles in the field of tourism more quickly.

Thus, we reaffirm our commitment to open science practices and to the importance of making tourism research widely accessible, taking this as a fundamental pillar and promoting transparency and collaboration.

Through the SciELO and Redalyc platforms, we expanded the journal's reach to other countries such as Portugal, Spain, Mexico, United States, China, among others, as recorded on the SciELO platform (<https://www.scielo.br/j/tva/i/2025.v27/>) and Redalyc (<https://www.redalyc.org/revista.oa?id=2610&tipo=coleccion>).

We reached the end of the period with 36 published articles authored by both national and international researchers. Of these, 31 articles were published in Portuguese and five in English. TVA received submissions from international researchers affiliated with universities in China (Nanjing Forestry University and NFU Academy of Chinese Ecological Progress and Forestry Studies), Nigeria (University of Lagos), and Sweden (Halmstad University).

In addition, there was significant participation from national researchers affiliated with universities across all Brazilian regions and several states, including Rio Grande do Sul, Brasília, Rio Grande do Norte, Sergipe, Paraná, São Paulo, Rio de Janeiro, Pernambuco, Amazonas, Minas Gerais, Bahia, Santa Catarina and Piauí.

Take a look at the numbers from Turismo: Visão e Ação – Volume 27 – 2025.

Note: Results for the period January 1 – December 31, 2025

Based on the numbers presented in the table, it can be observed that, through the efforts of the editorial team, the number of published articles increased to 36 compared to the previous volume. The acceptance and rejection rates are noteworthy, as they reflect a more rigorous process in the initial editorial decision regarding article acceptance.

As a goal for 2026, the journal aims to reduce the number of days to the first decision and the number of days to the final Decision – acceptance for publication or rejection – while maintaining high standards of rigor in the evaluation process in order to further improve the quality of the published articles.

Following the first publication of 2026 (two articles), the period began with 1.

Our publication goal for this year is 36 articles, with 50% also available in English. Upon acceptance for publication, authors are being invited to submit an English version to be published concurrently in the same issue, receiving the same DOI number.

The editorial team in 2025 was further strengthened by two guest editors who contributed to all stages of the editorial process: Prof. Tércio Pereira, PhD – Universidade do Vale do Itajaí (Brazil), and Prof. Thamires Folleto Fiuza, PhD – Universidade Portucalense (Porto, Portugal).

Additional editorial information about Volume 27–2025 is available electronically on the journal’s website at <https://periodicos.univali.br/index.php/rtva/index> and is freely accessible to all interested readers.

VOLUME 28 – 2026 EDITION IS NOW AVAILABLE!

This new volume, marking 28 uninterrupted years of dedication, introduces the grouping of scientific articles into six thematic sections: (1) Planning, Governance, and Public Policies for Tourism Destinations; (2) Management of Tourism Organizations, Services, and Tourist Behavior; (3) Tourism, Space, and Society; (4) Gastronomy, Culture, and Tourism Experiences; (5) Teaching, Research, and Extension in Tourism; and (6) Trends and Challenges in Tourism and Hospitality.

The final section is exclusively dedicated to opinion essays and invited contributions authored by internationally recognized scholars, whose reflections enhance and broaden the scientific debate in the field of tourism and hospitality. These contributions, published in the Short Paper format, will be evaluated through desk review by the editorial team.

In conclusion, our objective for 2026 is to further advance the internationalization of the journal, increase TVA's global visibility by expanding the number of articles published in English, and pursue indexation in highly ranked databases such as Scopus and Web of Science.
